MANAGEMENT DISCUSSION & ANALYSIS

INDUSTRY STRUCTURE AND DEVELOPMENT

Emerging strong even during the scariest phase of global financial meltdown, India has become one of the preferred investment destinations for the foreign investors across the globe. The investment scenario in India is getting bigger and better with by the passage of time. This is mainly due to high confidence levels of the investors formed due to their increase in purchasing power and overall per capita income. Today, India is considered the 4th biggest economy in the world. Its impressive GDP rate, especially in the field of purchasing power, has catapulted it to second position among all the developing nations. According to forecasts, Indian economy will grow to become 60% in size of the economy of US. It will also witness macro-level stability in economic conditions. Behind all this, investment industry is considered to be the key player.

The investment industry in India is broad and has been riding high since the last few years. India's equity market has doubled since March 2009. The overall contribution made by the financial services sector in India in the year 2009 was 15 per cent towards the GDP of the country. It has been always mentioned that investment in India should always be a long-term story as the industry has been growing from an emerging market to a developed one. With a significant growth in the Country's GDP in 2010, the Indian Investment Industry aims at achieving a mature stature in the near future. The next 10 years, the Investment Industry in India will surely give good returns to the investors.

Of late, the Indian economy is turning out to be extremely conducive in terms of domestic and foreign investments. In India, Investment industry has been the major propelling force towards India's attainment of self-sustained growth by way of rapid industrialization. The pioneers of the Indian investment industry have been Foreign Direct Investment (FDI) and Investments made by NRIs. Foreign Direct Investments in India has been gearing up momentum with every passing day. So to view an economy which is entirely open to the global markets, the investment industry in India should be groomed in a manner that the maximum returns are achieved. The investment industry's potential should neither be overestimated nor underestimated. Constant efforts are being made to deal with the complexities of the investment industry and grow along with it.

OPPORTUNITIES AND THREATS

The investing story in India has not been always that smooth. Pitfalls are sure to co-exist. The main hurdle on India's growth now is its infrastructure. On the other hand, infrastructure is India's biggest opportunity as well. The fiscal deficit of India also poses a big threat to the investment industry in India. For an emerging economy like India, it is recommended that an investor always balances the unique risks against the potential for high long-term growth. The decision for investment should be made accordingly by considering all these factors.

One of the major reasons behind investing in India is Inflation. Due to the constant rise in the cost of goods and services people in India are losing out on their real money value. Hence investing becomes very important to reap the benefits of their hard earned money. Due to the decrease in mortality rate and higher life-expectancy, people in India tend to invest more. The question of sustainability, especially during old age in most individuals has driven them to invest more to secure their future. Investing is also an option in Tax planning for individuals to help them save tax to a good extent. Investing perfectly according to one's requirements can improve the current standard of living and also helps to maintain a wealth reserve for the future.

OPPORTUNITIES

- The Investment Industry in India has a sound infrastructure which works to its advantage.
- The Indian economy is very conducive and has the ability to sustain the rapid industrialization and growth especially when it comes to foreign and domestic investments.
- With the rapid growth of foreign investments the grooming of the investment industry in India can achieve maximum returns.
- Increase in the per capita income and purchasing power of the people drives them to invest more and more to secure their future. This creates immense opportunity for growth of the industry as a whole.
- Increasing awareness among the people about investing and its financial benefits create more and more opportunities.

THREATS

- The problem of Fiscal deficit has posed a serious threat to the growth of investment industry in India.
- The regulations imposed by the Reserve Bank of India and the Government may restrict the inflow of investments in to India.
- The Indian economy is currently recovering from a recession hit situation and this has a negative effect on the Investment industry as there are much lesser
- The existing rivals in the market are posing a stiff competition for the lesser and extremely limited opportunities available for growth and sustainability
- Due to the opportunities the investment industry has to offer in a stabilized economy in the future, there is a serious threat buildup of new players entering the Industry thereby posing a futuristic threat of stiffer competition.

OUTLOOK AND FUTURE PLANS

Considering the effect of the present economic scenario on the industry as a whole, the company hasn't been able to perform well in the market for the last couple of years. However, there have been minor improvements in the Company's financial position compared to previous years but it has still not proven satisfactory. The company has not been able to rise up to capture the limited opportunities the industry has to offer. The business activities have been sluggish and the company did not undertake any new endeavors to increase its profitability.

The economy as a whole is gradually recovering and opportunities are disclosing themselves to the Companies who are more alert and are ready to grab them. The Company however does not plan to take up any new assignments as they are prone to very high risks in the current market situation. Thus the Company wishes to play safe for the time being till its financial position is stabilized to a satisfactory extent.

RISKS AND CONCERNS

Political risk remains one of the main obstacles to Domestic and foreign investment in emerging markets and is likely to continue being so over the medium term. Corporate investors rank political risk amongst their top three concerns when investing in developing countries such as India more often than any other consideration, including macroeconomic stability and access to financing. The prominence of political risk relative to other concerns will increase over the next three years, as constraints related to the global financial and economic crisis gradually ease. Political risk is a top concern for both domestic and corporate foreign investors in developing countries, venturing into emerging markets. At the same time, these investors maintain a positive outlook on economic and business prospects in the Country, which is expected to attract a growing share of global foreign direct investment (FDI) as the world economy slowly, recovers. The financial crisis has resulted in higher selectivity and stricter underwriting conditions in some segments of the private investment market and further more the capacity has been reduced in some cases.

Decentralization has introduced sub-sovereign entities as a source of risk, in particular for infrastructure projects whose viability relies on these entities being able to meet their contractual and financial obligations. Controls on access to foreign exchange have receded and financial markets have been liberalized over the past two decades, but some concerns over the ability to convert and transfer currency in times of crisis still persist, particularly in fixed exchange regimes. Opportunities for private investment in infrastructure and the extractive industries, with their long term horizons, large scale, and reliance on central or local government licenses or guarantees will continue to carry concerns.

The financial crisis has severely curtailed private capital flows to developing countries, reversing the upward trends observed over the past few years. Yet FDI flows to emerging markets are proving resilient, and rebounds are anticipated in 2011-2012.
